

Albany City Councilmen polished off eight agenda items in less than 10 minutes Monday night, but the following 10 minutes, under Good of the City, were somewhat more exciting.

Mayor Lewis Howell, apologizing for speaking under Good of the City, said he has been active in Boy Scouts since 1945 and "the lowest thing I've ever seen" was the action at the meeting of Citizens for Better Parkland last Thursday night, when the group proposed a paper drive, historically a Boy Scout project, to raise money.

"I can't see anyone propose to take a ton of paper in his back yard, which people have given to the Scouts, to be used this way... In 22 years on the Council, this is the lowest thing I've ever seen!"

Dario Meniketti hastened to the podium.

"This paper is at my house and is my property," he said. "It was not collected for the Boy Scouts."

Mayor Howell said, "You've always led the deals for the Scouts—their pancake breakfasts, etc. Troop 19 is having a breakfast this Saturday to raise funds."

Meniketti answered, "Walt Corvello collects paper for the Scouts... There was a recent paper drive to raise money for school bonds. This paper was given to me by my neighbors, by the Parkland group. You couldn't get me to deceive the Boy Scouts one minute. I can name everyone who gave them to me, including some from the Parkland group."

At this point Mayor Howell played a tape of Meniketti speaking at the meeting last Thursday night. On the tape he said paper is selling for $27 per ton, that he already had a ton and needed a pickup and a group of "hussy guys," because his back is in bad shape. He urged those at the meeting to gather as many papers as they could and to call him when there is enough and he would get their papers and sell them as they go along. He said this had worked well for the Boy Scouts and suggested the group advertise they were collecting papers.

When the tape was turned off, an outraged Meniketti said, "I've never cheated the Scouts out of a nickel in my life!"

Mayor Howell said, "O.K. This is my opinion."

Beri Hartman steamed to the podium to protest, "I am absolutely amazed that you would use your podium to comment on and play back the proceedings of a public meeting. You are cordially invited to attend and voice your opinions... In Dario's house now are papers I gave expressly for this drive. Dario would never cheat the Boy Scouts of this community. If you say this is the most outrageous thing in your 22 years, you must have blinders on!"

Ann Machado of 1066 Cornell, whose letter to Council regarding the Progress Report was filed without reading during the meeting, asked the reason for the Progress Report and where the money came from.

She was told by Mayor Howell that it was decided to compile a report of the good things in Albany and that the project had been discussed for about two years. Later he said it cost $2,901, which came out of the General Fund. He promised a report on the questionnaire later. The mayor told Ms. Machado hers was the first criticism he had heard. Many people want extra copies.

During the regular Council session, they set two public hearings (on a variance and the Home Occupation Use Permit) for Feb. 4; decided to inform Alameda County that the City of Albany would like assessed valuation figures on or before July 1; approved the appointment of Officer George A. Clouse to permanent rank of patrolman; authorized Superintendent of Park and Recreation

E. J. Rooney to send specification for a half-ton pickup to local auto agencies; authorized the appointment of a part-time civilian clerk-typist in the Police department, and referred to Administrative Officer James B. Turner a communication from Regional Water Quality Control board regarding water well standards in Alameda Co.

All five councilmen were present. It was announced that City Attorney Lawrence D. Saler, who is ill at home, would know Tuesday whether he has to have surgery.

The meeting adjourned at 8:20 p.m.

Better Parkland Members Sue

At a meeting held January 10, Mr. Lou Bell, chairman of the Albany group, Citizens for Better Parkland, announced that several members of the group had disclosed their intention of beginning a civil lawsuit to test the legality of the controversial Albany Hill land transaction. Contending that Interstate General Corporations purchase of 1.1 acres of Mr. Call's hillside property, which was subsequently turned over to the city, is questionable, several members have retained a San Francisco law firm to examine the issue. Mr. Bell pointed out that although the Better Parkland group is not involved in the lawsuit, the members had endorsed a proposal to give financial support and other assistance to individuals wishing to take legal action. Finance chairman Bruce Thompson re-affirmed the group's decision to help support litigation and stated that the members had a strong commitment to help finance the action.

In other areas of discussion, Mrs. Hood, a longtime Albany resident, cautioned the individuals who were beginning the legal action, asking them to remember that there are "two sides to every coin" and the possibility of an adverse judgment does exist. Mr. Bell replied that the people involved are aware of all possibilities and are prepared to assume responsibility.

In a final action on Thursday night Mrs. Beri Hartman, chairman of the community action sub-committee, urged as many as possible to attend a class for deputy registrars to help ensure that eligible Albany voters are registered to vote. Reminding those present that a notice as to time and place of the class had appeared in the Albany Times, she pointed out that any registered voter could become a deputy registrar and would be performing a necessary public service.

SYMPATHY to the Eldon Wolf on the recent death of their daughter, Debbie Wolf, 22. FORMER ALBANY residents, Nancy and Bob Clark, now of Vacaville, had a tragic Christmas. Their son-in-law, Jonathan Butler, and daughter, Frances, were involved in an accident en route to pay a Christmas Day visit to his mother. Jonathan, professor of Italian at UC-Davis, was killed instantly. Frances, member of the art faculty at the same institution and a prominent artist in her own right, has been in critical condition at San Leandro Memorial hospital with broken arms and legs and brain concussion. As soon as she can be moved safely, Frances wants to come to Alta Bates hospital. She lives in Berkeley.

SEVERAL from Albany will be participating in the Young People's Symphony Orchestra concert Sunday, Jan. 27, at Berkeley Community Theater, Allston Way and Grove. You may call 525-6158 for advance tickets or buy them at the door—$1.50 general; 50 cents, students.

ROSS GERSHENSON, Albany High graduate, is a senior majoring in music at Cal State in Hayward. He's thinking about playing professionally with a symphony, but may teach.

YOU'RE INVITED to Albany American Legion auxiliary's luncheon and bazaar at the Veterans building Saturday, Jan. 26, beginning at noon. Tickets must be purchased in advance, by Jan. 22, by contacting June Gray, ways and means chairman, at 525-6161. Those without tickets are welcome to attend the bazaar, where everything is to be handmade: baked goods, pillow slips, pot holders, aprons, etc.

AT THE MAYORS' Conference last Wednesday night in Alameda, the 13 Alameda County mayors were asked to consider how to obtain a five-passenger helicopter for use in the county for high rise fires, eucalyptus tree fire storms, planning, aerial photography, transportation of burned victims, etc. Proposed to be located in Oakland or Hayward, it would cost about $350,000 a year to operate.

The mayors elected Jack Malvest, San Leandro mayor, to replace the late San Leandro Councilman Al Kant, as representative on the Local Agency Formation commission.

MARIETTA FERREIRA, former City Treasurer, has been a patient in Albany hospital.

SENIOR CITIZENS

By F. E. (Ted) Pickerill
846 Masonic Ave.

The Senior Citizens of Albany had as their recent luncheon guests the members of the Soroptimists Club. The occasion was the annual installation of officers. This year marks the twentieth anniversary of the Albany Senior Center. A large factor in the success of the Center has been the continuing interest of the organization was a community project of the club. And they have been active in their support over the intervening years.

Mrs. Ellis Olson, with charming dignity, conducted the impressive installation ceremony. Mrs. Gertrude Garden reviewed for the new members a history of the Center and named some of the dedicated persons who over the years have worked so conscientiously for its success. Especially mentioned was Mrs. Annabelle Denham.

The following officers were installed: Robert E. Davis, president; John Quinn, vice president; Mary Millette, secretary; Edward E. Kotler, treasurer; Martha Flegner, chairman; Jeanne Hadfield, hostess.

The president expressed special appreciation for the loyalty and competence of the Center's organist, Mrs. Helene Connolly. He then named the committee chairmen for the year: Albert Scharff; John Quinn; Ruby Dillard; Julia Rossi; Marie Hauan; Catherine Wiggins; Cy Levine;

Lillian Bolljohn and Jeanne Hadfield.
He concluded his remarks saying that if he could be a good president this year as Mrs. Edna Cowan had been last year then we were certain to have an interesting and growing Center.

Among the distinguished guests were Bernice Boyd former manager of Security Savings and Loan and Harold Denham, manager of the Albany Chamber of Commerce.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF AMENDMENT TO MATTER - PETRIS ACT REQUIRING FILING OF CLAIMS OF EXEMPTION

Any person who claims an exemption from the permit requirements of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission (BCDC) for a project involving further fills in the Bay must file his claim and supporting documentation with the Commission on or before April 1, 1974, for Commission determination of the validity of those rights. Failure to file a proper claim on or before April 1, 1974, will result in the loss of any exemption rights and subject the project to normal BCDC permit requirements. In cases where the Commission has already determined that a fill project is exempt from the permit requirements of the Commission, a new claim of exemption need not be filed if those persons involved in the project have in their possession a written determination by or on behalf of the Commission that the project is exempt.

Forms for filing claims of exemption will be available at the Commission offices after January 3, 1974. Claims will be accepted for processing only on these forms, and the forms must be completed and submitted with documents supporting the claims as prescribed in Sections 10840 through 10849, inclusive, of the Commission's Administrative Regulations. Because there is a substantial amount of material required of the claimant in supporting a claim of exemption, persons who wish to file a claim should contact the Commission staff in writing as soon as possible for additional information on filing claims. Write to: San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, Claims of Exemption, 30 Van Ness Avenue, Room 2011, San Francisco, California 94102. 1486A—Publish January 16, 23, 1974.
